

Priestland is a multi genre DJ from Wales, specialising in bass heavy music. He is known for being one of the most adaptable DJs out there. His love for music has taken him across many styles, genres and cities.

He gained his first solid residency supporting some of the hottest names in the bass scene in 2018, and this residency led to various bookings across the UK such as his capital city Cardiff and then overseas in the summer for a residency in Ayia Napa.

After the summer residency finished it was back to the drawing board for Priestland. He retained his residency with Decibel which is still ongoing to this day with big plans in the pipeline to broaden their horizons away from where it started in Northampton and Leeds where they have held 2 successful nights.

Due to the Northampton residency at The Platform club he found out about Lisa Lashes School of Music and secured a place. This enabled him to grow his knowledge even more by the help of the very professional team including Lisa herself and some renowned names in the industry.

During his time there not only was he able to perfect his art of mixing but he was able to offer support to other students while taking part in the course. This then led to voluntary work with the school in their new school in Manchester.

Alongside the school of music he still kept himself as busy as possible securing his second overseas booking in Basel, Switzerland playing his first ever headline show courtesy of Subspace and after it going down storm he returned there two months after.

On returning to his hometown in Wales he was able to rekindle friends and contacts to get involved with events closer to home. Which led to a festival in his local area and hosting his own room for Day One. A brand who he has been a big influence on him and his work since they started.

2020 is a new year for Priestland. Since relocating to the midlands he plans to carry on the hard work and gain new experiences to continue his journey forward. He has started his plans by getting involved with Locked In Radio at Dark Arts Studios. He is hoping to hold down a regular show with them for the foreseeable future and plans to invite a variety of guests to feature on his shows.
